

Camps Bay
City Improvement District

Urban Management Survey Results

22 April 2023

Executive Summary

A Steering Committee has been established to investigate whether Camps Bay would benefit from a City Improvement District. A requirement of the process is an Urban Management Survey, the results of which are set out herein and which will be used to inform a Business Plan to be formulated by the Steering Committee and presented to the community at an upcoming Public Meeting.

883 responses were received to the survey, of which 95% were from property owners, two-thirds of whom are primarily resident in Camps Bay, 61% are male, just under 40% have ever rented their properties out, 32% have children under the age of 18, and almost a quarter are foreign citizens (with another 12% holding dual citizenship). Almost two-thirds of respondents have owned and/or lived in Camps Bay for more than 10 years, and more than 75% are over the age of 50. All sectors of the neighbourhood were well represented.

More than 80% of respondents are worried about overall safety in Camps Bay, with similar numbers feeling less safe than before in public spaces and concerned or very concerned about major crimes such as burglary and home invasion, while less than 20% rate SAPS effectiveness as “Good”. Approximately 70% of respondents agree that public service delivery has declined and are dissatisfied with overall cleanliness in Camps Bay. More than 90% are concerned about the level of homelessness in Camps Bay.

A majority of respondents support improvements in services with regard to all of the above areas, while a very strong majority (82%) support the establishment of a City Improvement District.

Background

In October 2022, two men were shot dead in broad daylight on the Camps Bay beachfront. One of the victims was allegedly a rogue taxi operator, the other was a young man simply unlucky enough to be in the wrong place at the wrong time. This was by far the worst public safety incident in Camps Bay in recent years, but it was not an isolated incident. Housebreaking, burglary, muggings and petty crime have become commonplace in the neighbourhood in recent years, along with increasing vagrancy, substance abuse and the social and other accompanying problems.

The worsening situation described above is despite a number of active neighbourhood civic volunteer organisations which have for many years been dedicated to addressing these problems, such as:

- Camps Bay and Clifton Ratepayers Association (CBCRA)
- Community Policing Forum (CPF) and Camps Bay Watch (CBW)
- Camps Bay Community Security Initiative (CBCSI) and Camps Bay and Clifton Safe Community Trust (CBCSCT)
- Ignisive (previously known as Community Who Cares)

As is often the case with such organisations, all of the above are under-funded and under-resourced, and most are unsustainable. The majority of neighbourhood safety-related services are provided by CBCSI, which is funded by voluntary donations, overseen by over-stretched volunteers, operates at a loss and has insufficient reserves to survive much beyond the middle of 2024. All of the other organisations are similarly operating on shoestring budgets and overseen or staffed by volunteers, many of whom are burnt out and/or unable to commit the significant time required.

Motivated by the above, concerned members of the Camps Bay community have established a Steering Committee (SC) to investigate whether the area would benefit from a City Improvement District (CID).

In accordance with relevant by-laws and other stipulated requirements set out by the City of Cape Town (CoCT):

- The SC met with relevant CoCT officials to register itself and declare the boundaries of the proposed CID.
- CoCT confirmed that all members of the SC are in good standing with the City and that the rates collection ratio for properties within the boundaries of the proposed CID exceeds 95% over the past 12 months.
- CoCT provided the SC with a database of Camps Bay ratepayers in compliance with the Protection of Personal Information Act.
- An Urban Management Survey (UMS) was designed by the SC and approved by CoCT. The purpose of the UMS is to identify local community, public and ratepayers' concerns and therefore appropriate supplementary municipal services priorities for the Camps Bay area.
- As set out in further detail below, the UMS was distributed by the SC to all property owners in Camps Bay for whom valid contact details could be obtained, as well as made available for completion by commercial and residential tenants.

This document sets out the results of the UMS, which will inform the Business Plan for the proposed CID. In due course, the Business Plan will be presented at a Public Meeting, and must be supported by no less than 60% of the property owners in the CID area and by the City of Cape Town if the CID is to be established.

The borders of the proposed CID are indicated by yellow lines on the map following. With the exception of Camps Bay High School and Glen Beach (areas which are included within the proposed Clifton CID), all of Camps Bay and Bakoven is included within the boundaries of the proposed CID.

Sample Requirement and Construction

The Municipal by-laws regarding CIDs require that a UMS be conducted on a sample consisting of no less than 20% of Additional Rate Payers (ARPs), randomly selected and with owners of multiple properties counted only once. With 2,308 ARPs in Camps Bay, a minimum of 462 UMS responses is required.

The SC felt that it would be more appropriate to seek opinions from the entire neighbourhood and the UMS was therefore distributed to all property owners for whom valid email addresses could be obtained. The UMS was also open for completion by commercial and residential tenants and other non-property-owning parties by means of various other channels, as set out in the section that follows.

Methodology

The UMS was conducted online, with invitations to complete the survey distributed primarily by email. Approximately 1,400 unique email addresses were supplied by CoCT, with a further 543 obtained by the SC through phone calls and personal visits to property owners for whom CoCT did not supply an email address. The remaining properties are primarily accounted for by persons or entities that own multiple properties or who are ineligible to vote (e.g., CoCT owns various properties in Camps Bay, mostly public open space), leaving only a small minority of properties (135) without a valid email address available. The survey remained open for completion for more than 3 weeks, from 28 February to 21 March 2023. Regular email reminders were sent and invitations and reminders were also posted on various community Telegram and WhatsApp groups.

Responses and Demographics

The survey was completed by 883 property-owners and residential and commercial tenants, substantially exceeding the minimum requirement of 462 responses. The table at right shows the split of responses across the different areas of Camps Bay.

Area	Count	% of Total
Glen	219	24.8%

Approximately 95% of the responses were provided by property-owners or their representatives. Of some interest is the very high rate of non-primary residence evidenced by only 66% of respondents counting Camps Bay as their primary residence. This is underscored by the high rate of ownership by foreigners, with almost a quarter being foreign citizens. Just over 60% of respondents were male, almost a third have children under 18 in their household and almost 40% have ever rented their property out.

Findings: Summary

In summary, the response of Camps Bay's residents to the UMS paints a picture of a community that is very worried about safety and security, feels significantly less safe than before in all public spaces of the neighbourhood, is somewhat concerned about reducing levels of public service delivery and cleanliness, and is very concerned about the rising level of homelessness.

A significant majority therefore supports the formation of a CID to address these concerns.

Significant findings from the survey are highlighted in the pages that follow. Complete details of all questions and responses, with analysis by reference to key demographics, can be found in the accompanying 47-page addendum.

Findings: Overall Perceptions

The following table shows the eight questions that respondents were asked in order to gauge their overall perceptions regarding issues of relevance to the CID. As shown, each response was assigned a numerical value from 1 to 5, thereby allowing an average response to be calculated (shown below in the “Total” column for each question) alongside the percentage of respondents who selected each of the possible responses. The two columns at right aggregate the non-neutral responses in order to summarise how respondents feel in general. Colour-coding is used to visually represent the responses, with colours on the red/orange spectrum indicating lower or less positive responses and colours on the green spectrum showing the opposite.

As shown in the table above, safety is a major concern amongst residents of Camps Bay. Responses to the first question indicate that 82% of residents are worried or very worried about the overall level of safety in the neighbourhood. Respondents feel more unsafe than before, whether that be on the street at night, on the mountain, or in their homes. Respondents are generally dissatisfied with public service delivery and cleanliness in the neighbourhood. More than 90% are worried about homelessness.

Analysis of responses with reference to length of residence (shown in the table below as the average value for all respondents within each demographic category) shows that those who have lived in Camps Bay between 5 and 9 years have the worst opinion of safety in the neighbourhood, but for the most part opinion is consistent across length of residence. This supports the sentiment that the overall safety of the neighbourhood has declined. The concern regarding homelessness is especially evident. Similar patterns are seen for length of property ownership in Camps Bay (data not shown below, see addendum for further details).

Additionally of interest - perhaps worryingly - members of the community with children under the age of 18 felt significantly less safe / more concerned on average:

Perhaps unsurprisingly, South African citizens and full-time residents feel less safe than foreigners and those for whom Camps Bay is not their primary residence. This can be explained by greater exposure of full-time residents to local crime news and greater likelihood of falling victim to crime or knowing other victims of crime. In contrast, there are no significant differences between local and foreign perceptions of public service delivery, cleanliness and homelessness, explainable by all of these issues being very visually evident in Camps Bay and hence perceptions thereof are less likely to be diluted by distance and/or only visiting irregularly.

There were no significant differences in any of the overall perceptions by reference to ownership status, gender, area of residence or whether a respondent had ever rented their property out. Perceptions by age group were also relatively consistent, other than at younger ages (where the sample size was relatively small).

Findings: Safety & Security (Major Crimes)

Regarding major crimes, there is little deviation from the overall perceptions of safety. 90% of the community are at least slightly concerned about burglary, with almost 60% being very concerned. A similar number worry equally about home invasions. Less than 1% of the community are not at all concerned by these issues.

Further analysis by reference to area suggests the positive impact of the deployment of additional, visible safety-related resources. The Glen and Rontree 1 areas, collectively comprising more than a third of respondents and both having benefited from the implementation of private guard and camera schemes in some of the roads in these areas, both scored relatively better than other areas with relatively fewer such schemes in place.

For South African vs. foreigner and primary residence vs non-primary splits, the former in both cases again feel more concerned than the latter. Differences were not marked in any of the other demographics.

In the comments section, over 250 comments were received. Many were personal accounts by residents who have been recent victims of crime, in many cases multiple times. The beachfront area was highlighted as a hotspot for drug-related crime, including aggressive vagrants and unofficial car guards. Many residents had observed drug transactions taking place, including drugs being offered to minors.

Findings: Safety & Security (CBCSI, SAPS and Law Enforcement)

Over 80% of respondents were aware to some degree about CBCSI, the majority of those believing themselves to be very informed about its operations and capacities. Only a small minority of respondents do not believe that CBCSI makes any difference.

The proportion of respondents rating the performance of SAPS as Poor is more than double those that believe it to be Good, with 40% of respondents having a negative view and only 17% reporting SAPS as effective. The overall perception of law enforcement in the suburb is not good, which no doubt contributes to the prevalent negativity regarding public safety.

A majority of respondents were not aware that CBCSI is financially unsustainable. An overwhelming majority of respondents would like to see additional law enforcement services in Camps Bay, most notably foot and vehicle patrols, which 92% of the community reported they would welcome. The overall poor rating of SAPS is reflected by the community’s overwhelming desire for additional officer presence in the area.

17	Metro police enforce by-laws, traffic laws and assist in crime prevention. Would you like to see more Metro Police officers dedicated to Camps Bay?	1.2	84.1%	11.4%	4.4%
18	Would you support a suburb-wide initiative for monitored cameras, including licence plate recognition cameras and thermal cameras along mountain boundaries?	1.2	86.3%	9.9%	3.9%
19	Would you welcome additional public safety services such as foot and vehicle patrols?	1.1	92.1%	5.4%	2.5%

Naturally, older primary residents and those who have owned or lived in the area for longer were more likely to know about CBCSI. There were no significant differences in any of the other demographics. For detailed tables please see the addendum.

In the comments section, support was expressed for manned huts and a strong presence at the three entry and exit roads into Camps Bay (manned huts were previously funded by CBCSI, situated at the positions mentioned; these were removed a few years ago, at least in part due to lack of financial support for CBCSI, making continued provision of these services financially unsustainable). Many respondents indicated that they would like to see foot patrols focused on the beachfront and greenbelt areas as priorities.

Findings: Cleanliness & Urban Management

Responses to survey questions indicated that the community on average considers most aspects of public cleanliness (with the notable exception of concerns regarding illegal dumping) and maintenance to be tolerable. Notwithstanding this, many comments were received indicating multiple areas of concern beyond only illegal dumping (see further detail below). There were no notable differences in responses by reference to any of the demographic factors.

The most notable concern in evidence relates to the mess caused by vagrants and “bin pickers”. This is clearly a major inconvenience for residents that a CID could greatly assist with by providing additional cleansing services and addressing homelessness by way of social upliftment and other initiatives. Similarly, it is clear that additional recycling collection services would be welcomed. Significant majorities of respondents would like to see greater care of public spaces, better management of burst drains, and better management of traffic and speeding. Less than a majority (but still a significant percentage) would like to see improved maintenance of street verges and more public litter bins. For the most part there were no notable differences in the demographic splits for these questions, save for an unsurprising difference regarding additional play facilities for children, where those with children under the age of 18 were significantly more in favour.

In the comments section, much dissatisfaction was expressed over the recent move by the City of Cape Town to reduce the recycling collection frequency to bi-weekly, with many residents indicating that they would like to see a return to weekly collections. Many residents highlighted servitudes and connecting alleyways as needing particular attention, including fixing steps. Other common requests included fixing sidewalk potholes, more frequent grass cutting in public spaces, fixing fences and more litter bins along the coast road between Clifton and Bakoven. Residents would like to see existing parks and children’s play facilities better maintained, and steps taken to tackle vagrancy in these parks. Another common theme was the need to upgrade and beautify the Beachfront strip in general.

Findings: Social & Economic Development

The vast majority of respondents indicated that they would be in favour of some sort of initiative to help combat homelessness and the frequent instances of begging in the area, especially along the beachfront. Around half answered in favour of curbing the operations of buskers and street performers along the beachfront, and 70% indicated they would view positively a plan to limit the areas in which buskers can perform. Most residents indicated ignorance of current social upliftment programmes. Additionally, more than three-quarters of respondents indicated that they would support further initiatives for safe beachfront parking.

In the comments section, a number of respondents highlighted the need for properly co-ordinated awareness campaigns aimed at discouraging tourists from giving handouts to vagrants.

Findings: Support for the CID

A significant majority of the community (82.2%) is in favour of the establishment of a CID, with more than 50% indicating strong support. Only 6.9% of residents do not support a CID being established.

Support for the proposed CID did not vary notably by reference to ownership status, primary residence, area, nationality, gender, or whether or not the respondent’s property had ever been rented. There was however some indication that respondent age (ignoring small sample size at younger ages) is marginally inversely correlated with support for a CID, indicating potential affordability concerns for older residents.
